

I am very happy for the opportunity to do my internship at Baymag Inc. in Canada. It was an excellent opportunity to gain practical experience and learn about the entire mining process including short-term planning, surveying, blasting, as well as mining production. I enjoyed working with the Mine team because everyone was very helpful and friendly. I was immediately considered as a full member of the team. The working atmosphere was just perfect. The Mining team was kindly explaining and guided me through the process, which helped me understand how mining operations work. I strongly believe that the opportunity to learn from Baymag's professional engineers gave me someone to look up to and a goal to work towards. Moreover, the internship training helped me to develop essential skills that I would not get in a university. Additionally, it taught me to become a better disciplined person. Overall, I feel that working in an actual mining operation, I have grown as an engineer and individual.
